Sophie Griffiths

The chief executive of bed bank youtravel.com has forecast profits of €1.5 million for the group next year.

Speaking to TTG at the youtravel conference in Corfu today, John Kent said the company had experienced a good year despite the ash cloud and was expecting good results.

"2010 has been our best year despite the difficulties experienced by the industry following the ash cloud," he said. "We are very optimistic for 2011 now."

Youtravel made a £1.4 million loss in the UK for the year ending in October 2009 but said its Greek business had recorded a profit of over €1 million in 2009. The company has predicted a group profit of between €1 million and €2 million for the current financial year.
